

While attempting to improve our skills in making Gyotaku prints, Heather Nicholson and I worked with a couple of small, "keeper" trout. The impressions we created were highly variable, some capturing more of the fishes' physical characteristics than others. As we did with the Holy Grail series (see related blog on this page), we later "enhanced" the paintings by adding dots, eyes and "touching up" some of the areas where the impressions were lacking. In the end, we were quite satisfied with the overall quality of the images.

We now offer these enhanced Gyotaku prints for sale, and pledge 20% of the sale price of each piece toward the support of the speckled trout fishery. We'll either be making a donation to a research or production facility, or using the money to promote the concept of catch and release in some way.

The prints in the Keeper series will be shipped unframed. The price is $29.99, which covers cost of the artwork, tax and shipping and handling.

To order one of these decorative and colorful prints, use the Keeper PayPal button on the Captain Kev's Products page of this website. Please specify the number of the print(s) ordered by emailing me at kevxl8@mygrande.net with the number(s). If the word Sold! appears below an image of a print below, it is no longer available.

Thanks in advance to all who order for supporting mine and Heather's artistic endeavor, and for making a contribution to our effort to promote the health of Texas' speckled trout fishery.
